Architecture Caribbean creative

As part of the bold renovation at Casa Malca, the architects created a single space worthy of two different worlds...

one that showcases great art yet also emits the relaxed, casual feel befitting a property set between the ocean and a lush jungle. Though intimate, the newly renovated resort, with three welcoming swimming pools, offers the most spacious rooms in Tulum. A large beachfront villa perched above the sand, the property utilizes eco-friendly construction that creates a rustic feel.

Interior design Lust and space

Bursts of color serve to inspire guests and add zest to the resort's locally sourced, organic cuisine.

Casa Malca's airy rooms, meanwhile, present an eclectic mix of color, contour, and luxury, while floor-to-ceiling windows open onto a breathtaking view of the beach or gaze upon organic gardens. Public spaces incorporate Mayan themes, natural wood, and large windows for maximum sun.

Food & Drink Food for thought

Philosophy restaurant boasts incredible sea views, though perhaps the real view is within.

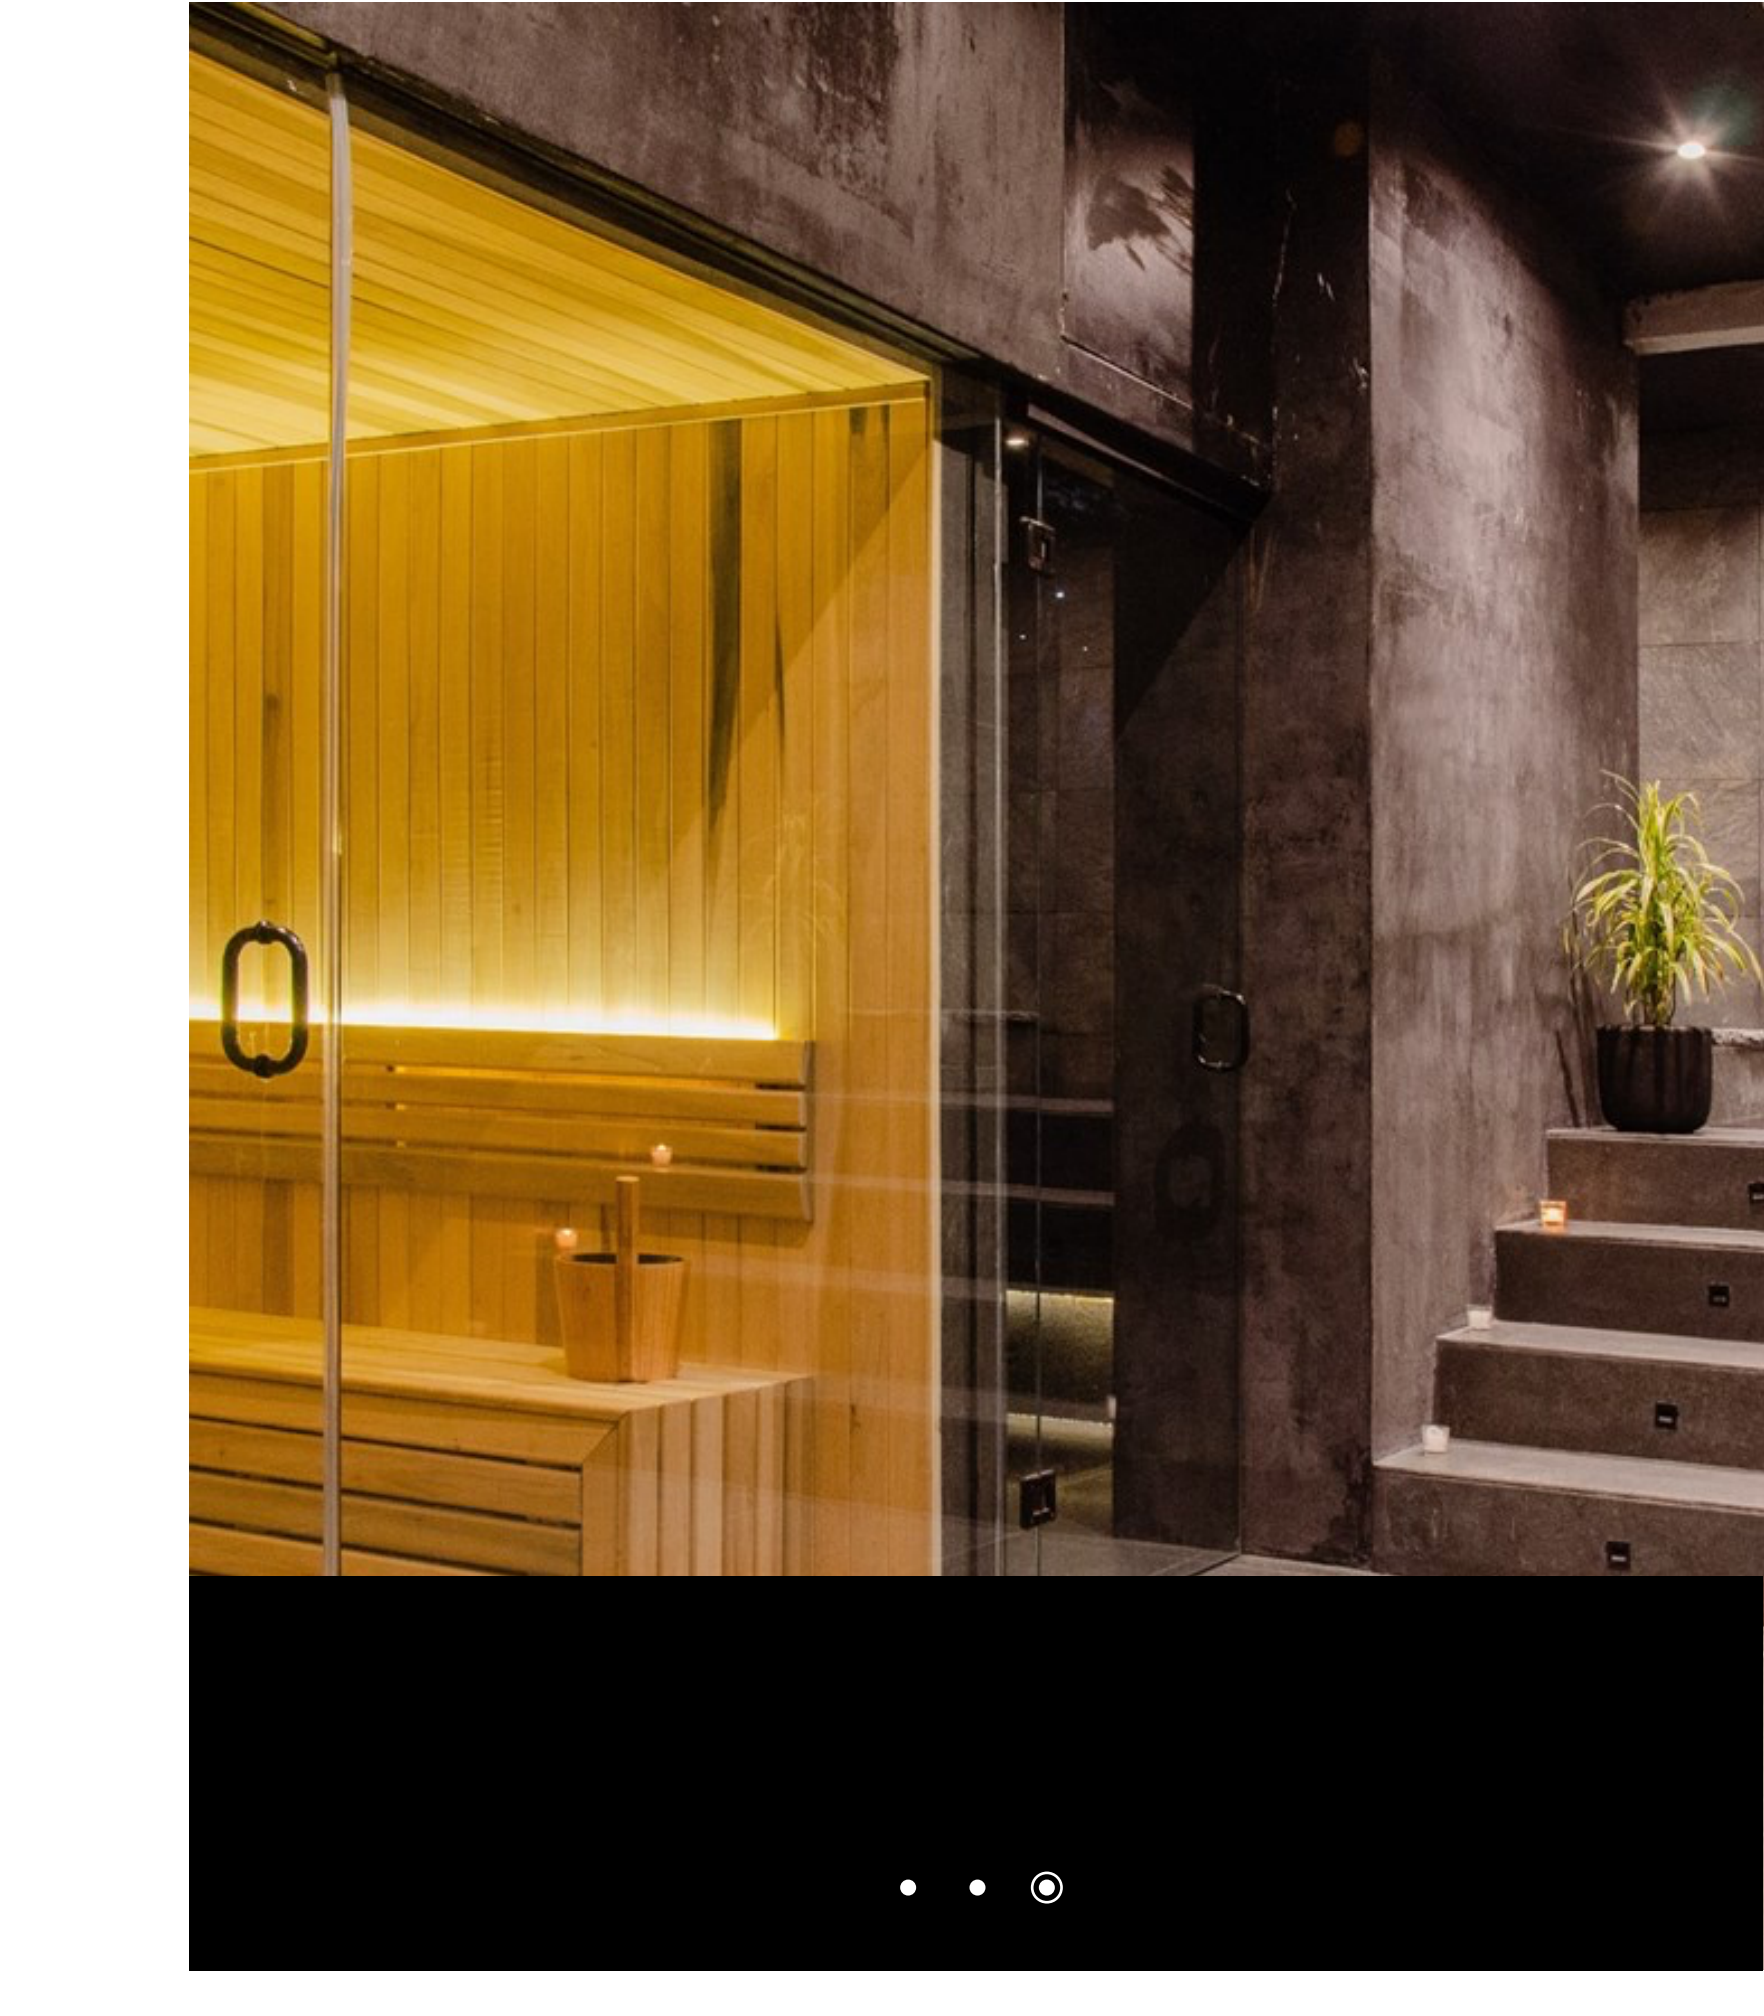

The restaurant's decor was conceived to be unique, romantic, and sarcastic at once. The menu features local ingredients and knowledge handed down from generation to generation in Mexico, combined with contemporary European cooking techniques.

Art & Culture A museum-worthy wonder

At Casa Malca one discovers a carefully selected roster of Modern and Contemporary Masters...

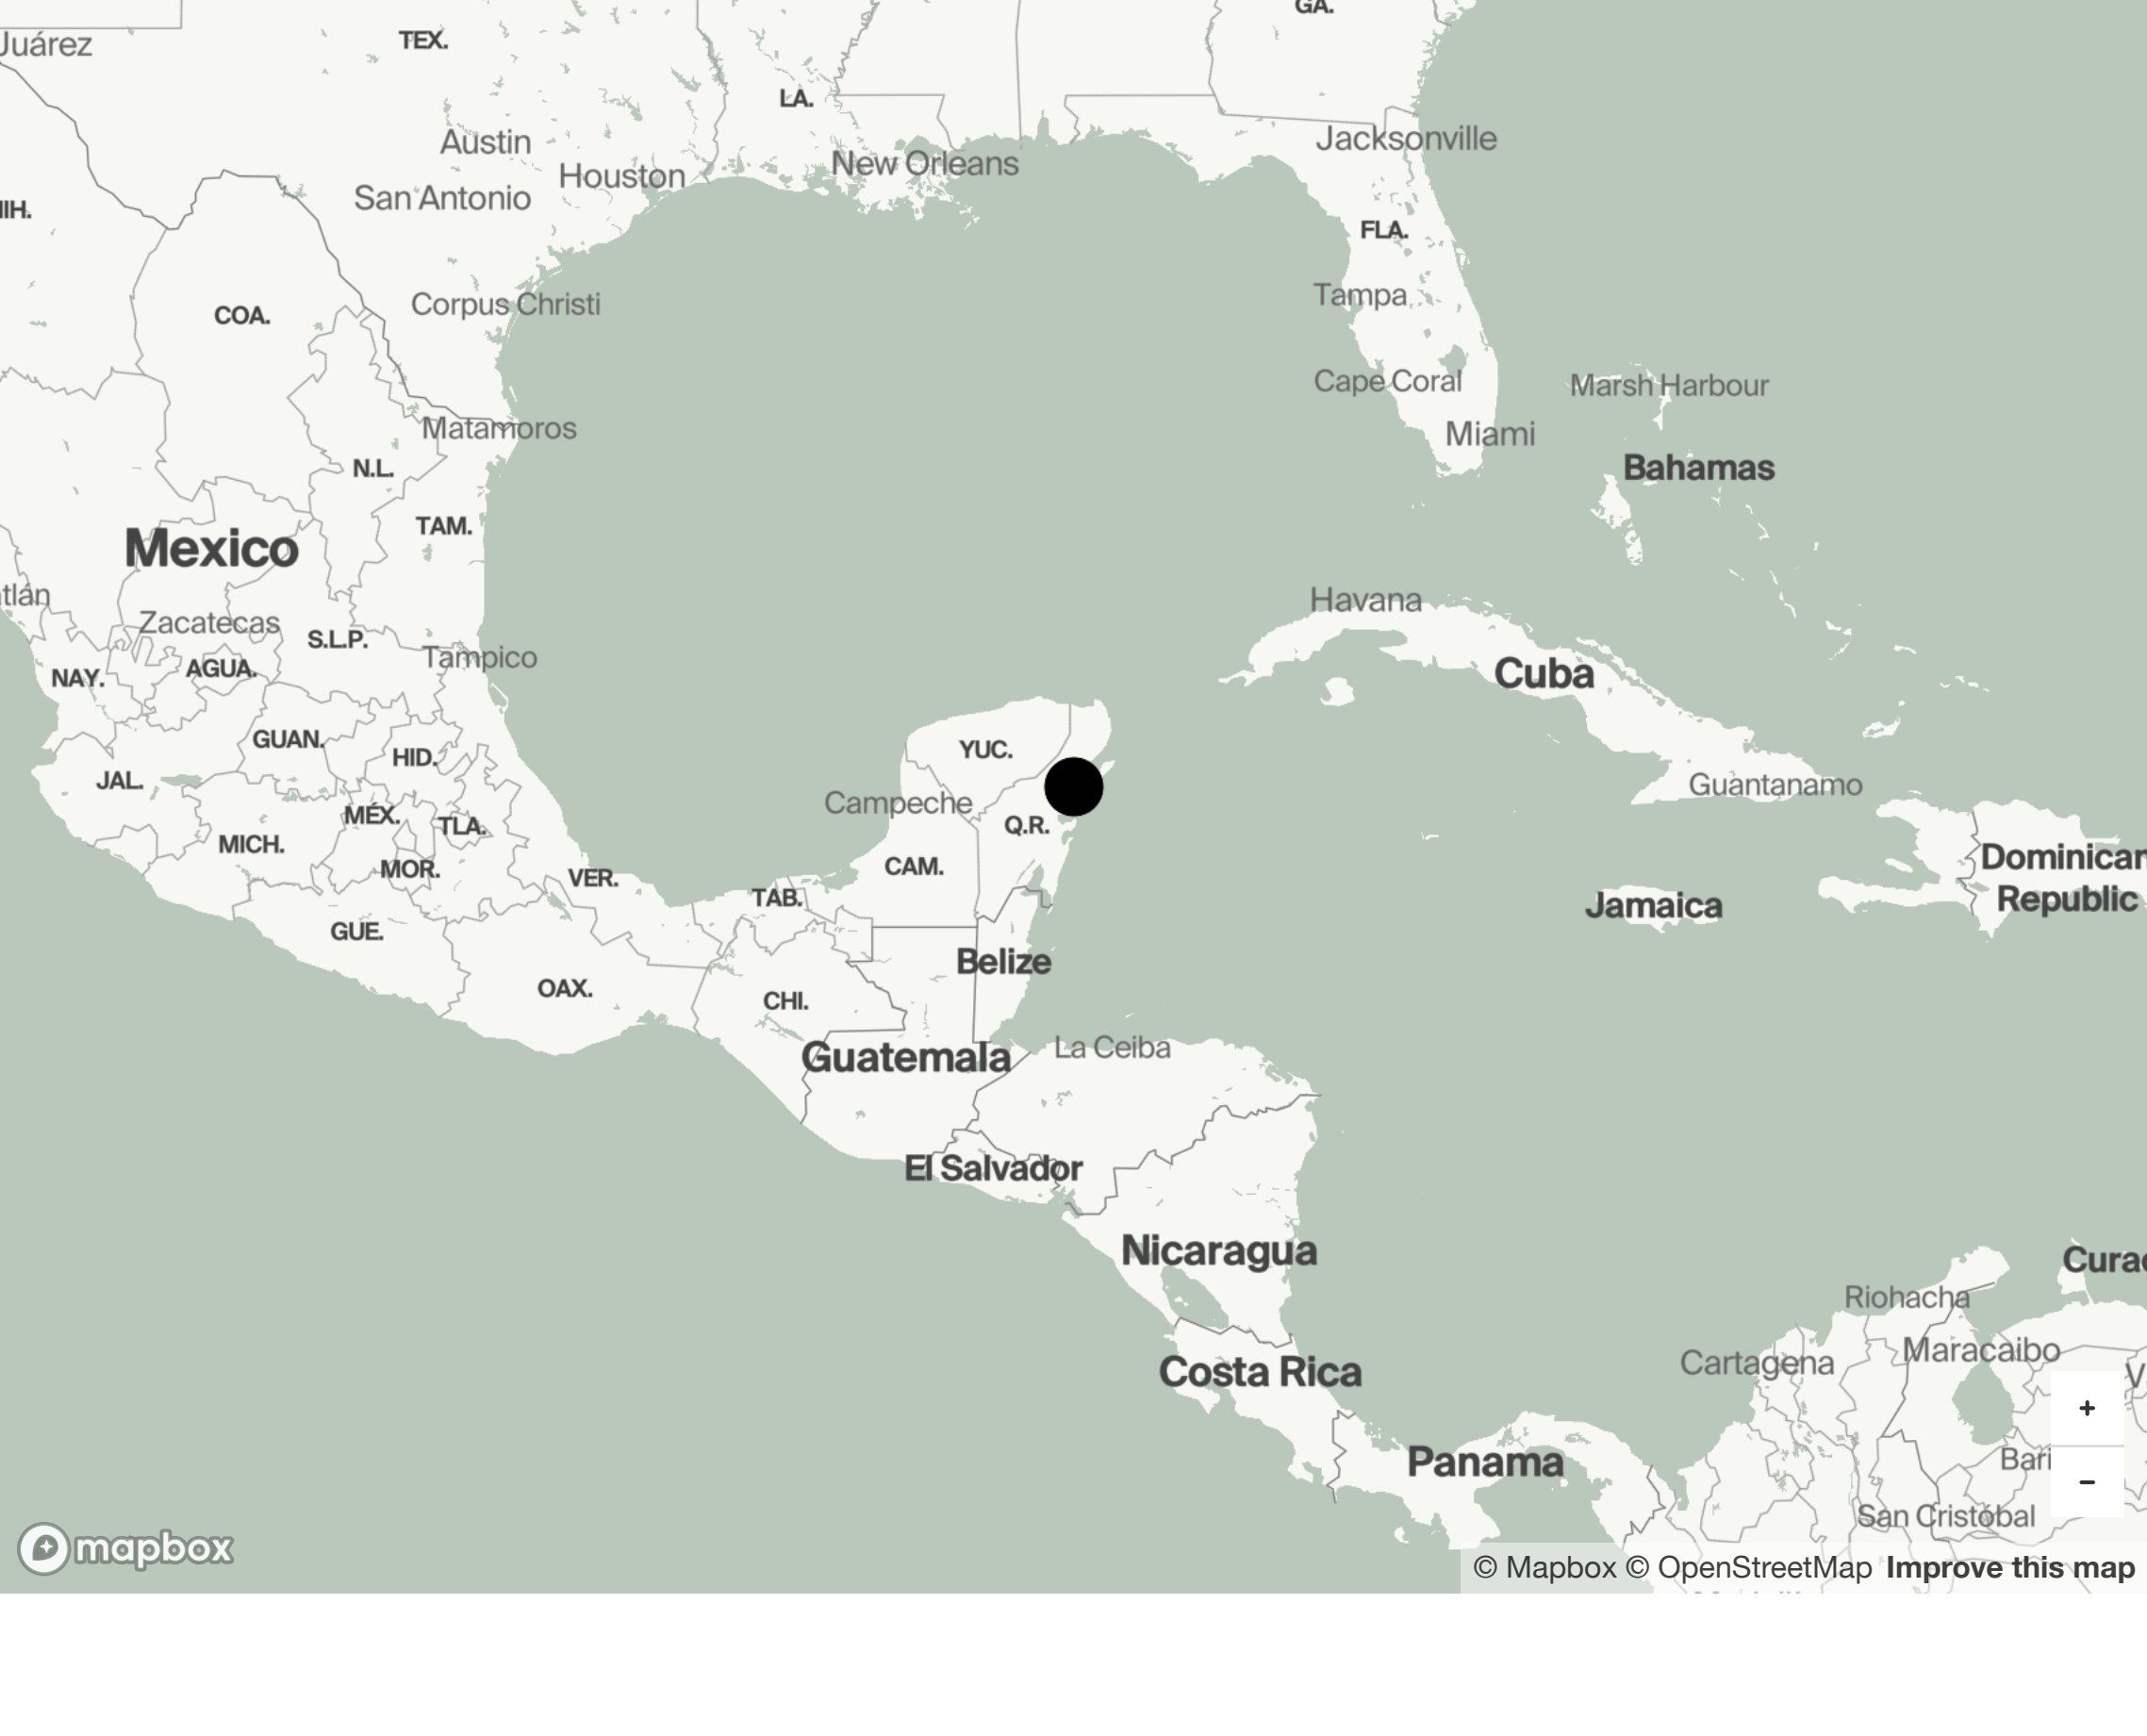

In other words, just what you'd expect from a hotelier who had a hand in major worldwide retrospectives at the Brooklyn Museum NY, Beyler Foundation Basel, Musee d'Art Moderne de la Ville de Paris, and other top venues.

Wellbeing Inner balance

Calma Spa marries wellness experiences inspired by Mayan traditions with spectacular views of the Caribbean.

A fitness room, hydrotherapy facilities, aromatherapy, a sauna, a cold plunge pool, and a spa pool with hydro-massage elements set the stage, but it's the local team here who produce the magic. The Precious Stone Ritual with amethyst dust will leave your skin feeling spectacular, while a holistic massage by the sea to the sound of the waves will take you to a meditative state. And if you are traveling as a pair, you will adore the Romantic Couple's Rituals, which boasts aromatic candles, Champagne, and chocolate truffles.
